Get the most out of your life!

Dear Friends,

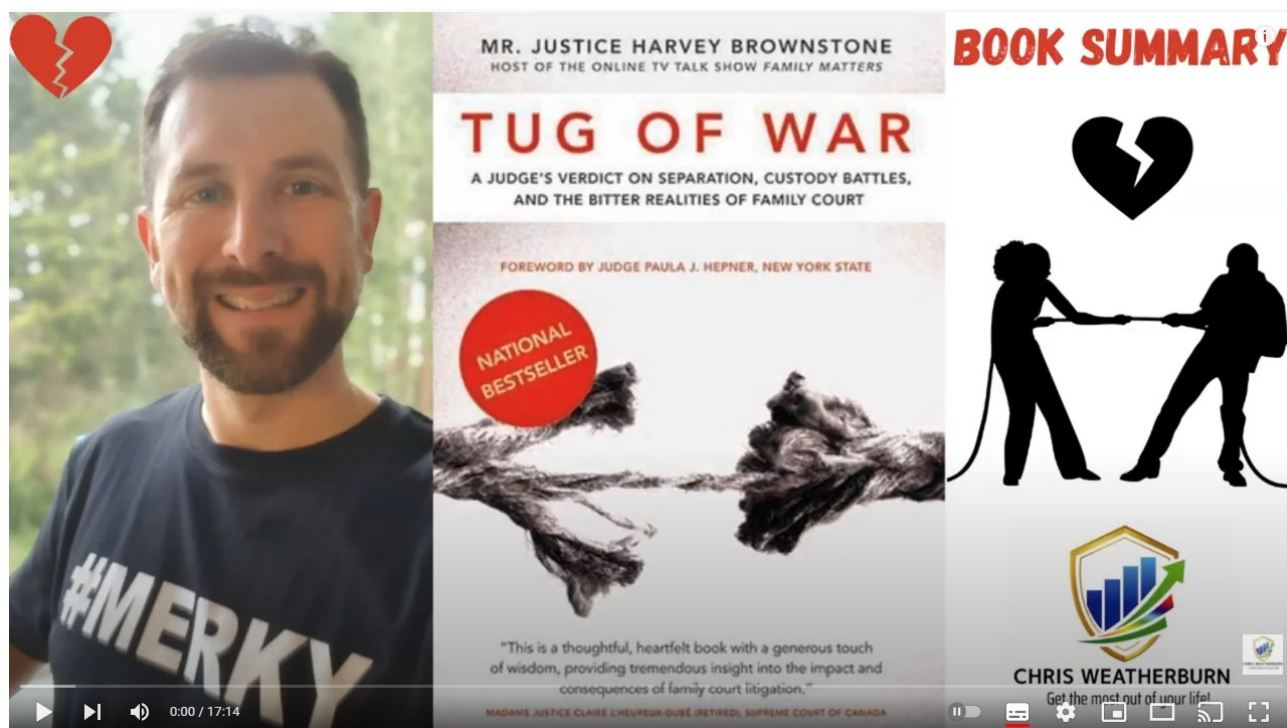

Time is flying by, and I sincerely hope that you are all having fun. Personally, am finding it harder to make as many YouTube videos as I would like. In honesty it is more fun trying to learn Kizomba and other dances than spending time on the computer. In life getting that elusive balance is important and it is equally important not to be hard on oneself if plans don't go according to plan, flexibility is key.

Flexibility relates in part to my summary of The Dichotomy of Leadership "A careful moment of consideration might reveal the enemy's true intentions. To disregard prudent counsel when someone with experience urges caution, to dismiss significant threats, or to fail to plan for likely contingencies is foolhardy. It is bad leadership. "Leading" does not mean to push your agenda or proving that you have all the answers. It is about collaborating with the rest of the team and determining how to most effectively accomplish a mission or goal." Don't just push your agenda through always remember to listen to others and adapt to achieve the overall goal!

In terms of time management, including some contingency time is key, am still managing to do a fair bit and applied knowledge from many books about this. My most helpful suggestion would be using your electronic calendar but also as a to-do list allowing you to change your schedule depending on the urgency of the tasks.

YouTube Video of the Month

Selected this one as I believe it has some valuable content for anybody who is going through separation and has children. I salami sliced a bit at the end into another video making a top 10 tips video. This was aiming to promote the longer one, seemingly YouTube like 10 tips videos.

Happy to help

If you ask the universe for something you may receive it! If you are on Twitter you might have wondered what the red pink microphone was by some people's names. Initially I thought the person was live in a Twitter space, but it is the person who started the thread. I started a thread to see if I could obtain one and @ChorltonJim obliged with a spectacular microphone that looks similar to a toy that can be purchased from an adult only shop!

Have a great month,

Chris

Website of the Month

<https://stars.chromeexperiments.com/>

This is a cool website which is an interactive visualisation of 100,000 stars. It lets you see how small Earth is relative to everything around. If you look at this you can't help but feel awe and also spend a couple of minutes looking at this!
